“ Hi mom, this is Alannah. I'm now 14 years old and I really miss you. I wonder everyday about your personality, though I've heard of you from stories. I wish you could have gotten off drugs, I wish I could have known you longer. It's so sad seeing what drugs did to you, what it did to our family. I remember you playing with me and Rylee when I was a little kid, mom. You used to make us macaroni with barbecue sauce.. isn't that a silly mixture? Me and Rylee did eat it up happily though, whatever you made was really yummy. I wish I could have went to your funeral, I stayed back though because I was to young to see you in such state. I see picture of you nowadays, very young pictures and you look just like me. I see the photos where you signed yourself as "Brandi Jones" on the back of photos that you were going to give to my father Chris. Sometimes I wonder what would've happened if you got clean, if you took care of yourself. Nobody has messaged you on here for years mama. I'll make sure I say something on here every now and then. I love you so much!!! You're the best, and I hope you're in a better place. I hope your living your life to the fullest. I wish your doctors didn't start your addiction. I miss you so much mama. Sometimes I wish I was older before you died, maybe I could help you and make you stop. I wish I could turn back time and save you.
