

Klavdia Bodrova

June 26, 2021

Born in Moscow in 1923, Klavdia Bodrova passed away at age 98. She is survived by her daughter, Natalia and her daughter's husband Alexander, as well as her granddaughter and great grandchildren. She lived through world War 2, where she contributed to the war effort, sewing parachutes and rationing food to help continue to the war effort. She also lived through the fall of communism, finally moving to the states in 2010 to be with her family. Although she declined over the last 11 years, she will be remembered as she was, full of love and always having a story to tell for her great grandchildren. She will be greatly missed
