

Randall J. Daniels

October 28, 2020

Randall J. Daniels Jr., 63, of Brooklyn, Ohio passed away on October 26, 2020. Randall is survived by his children Randall (Kathy) Daniels III, Brianna Daniels (Alan Rudolph), Aaron Daniels, and Robert Daniels (Lydia Potoma grandchildren, Lillian Potoma, Adaline Daniels, and Weston Daniels; mother, Pearl Daniels; siblings, Duane Daniels and George Daniels; and many close friends and extended family. His favorite times in life were always when together with his family and friends. Randall grew up in Brook Park, Ohio and from an early age surrounded himself with music. He focused his creativity on playing guitar, writing songs, and performing. He touched more lives with his music than he could ever realize, and was too humble to believe the impact he had on others. Later in life he combined his talents of woodworking and music to create handmade cigar box guitars. The family plans to remember Randall's life with a celebration being planned for spring 2021.

“ One of the bands I played in was with Randy, and some of his friends from Brookpark, Brian and Phil, and those 3 guys could harmonize so well. It was an honor to play with Randy.

“ Mark and I are so sorry to hear of Randy's passing. He was a great person to spend time with, and a lovely lovely musician. I asked him to play "These Days" for me at Susie Porter 's place a few years back. He did such a wonderful version. He knew just about every song ever written.Love seeing all the pictures of him on FB with his grandkids. Rest In Peace, Randy.
