FENNVILLE, Mich. -- A 16-year-old basketball player from western Michigan collapsed and died of an enlarged heart after hitting a game-winning shot to complete his high school team's perfect season, ABC News reported Friday. Wes Leonard was hurled into the air by teammates as fans rushed the court after he made the decisive layup in a 57-55 overtime win over Bridgman Thursday to complete Fennville's 20-0 season, the Holland Sentinel reported.
